Healthy Communication with Your Child's School Staff-This session is presented by Dakota High Hawk. There is often a problem with communication at a school between parents and school staff. Due to many years past of oppression and fear of school staff, parents do not enjoy going to the school of their children. When they go it is because they are mad or fearful for their child and they are in fight mode. Nothing is gained when this happens, communication is bad and the child often is removed from the school before a solution to the problem is found. This gives the wrong message to children. This session will give parents confidence to go to the school and address those problems that often come up, in a productive manner.

10:30-11:45 AM

Transitions from PreK to Kindergarten-Cindy Fisher joins us from the OLC Headstart Program. Cindy has had many years of experience in this area and will talk about how to transition children from PreK area to Kindergarten with little or no trauma. Indigenous Well Being: Connecting the Spiritual, mental, physical and Social Well Being Pillars to promote education and leadership in schools and communities. The Indigenous Well Being model is connected to the CORN POLLEN Model which is designed to promote spiritual, mental physical, and social well-being pillars for educators and leaders. The holistic based spiritual well-being quadrant is strongly tied to having purpose in life which connects to cultural well-being or identity, linguistic well-being or language, and artistic well-being or possessing one's gift in life. Interested? Check this out. Shawn Secatero is from the University of New Mexico and is joining us again this year because he has been very popular at this conference.

SYLVANIA ROOM

ALL DAY

School Board Training-Dr. Roger Bordeaux and Terry Albers will present a training for School Board members. While most board members have good intentions, the majority of them have little or no experience in serving on a schoolboard. A 2015 Stanford Graduate School of study showed that 65% of boards didn't feel their board was experienced and 48% didn't believe that board members were engaged in their work. Effective schoolboard members are engaged in the mission and vision of the school outside of board meetings. Leadership and seasoned board members should mentor newer members to guide them towards areas where they can use their talents and abilities. Board members share responsibility with the leadership for digging in and contributing at the ground level. Join this session to learn the effective methods of being a contributing board member.
